

The Kelley School of Business at Indiana University, Bloomington is accepting applications for full-time Lecturer (rank open) positions to teach Communication Skills (business writing, business presentations) courses in the Communication, Professional, and Computer Skills area, effective fall 2022. These are 10-month appointments with an 18-24 credit hour teaching assignment.

Candidates must have a Master's Degree (Ph.D. preferred) in Communication, Business, Journalism, Law, English or a related field. The ideal candidate will have experience teaching undergraduate business students. Candidates with experience in corporate communication or training are encouraged to apply. Excellent verbal and written communication skills, commitment to university service and professional development, and the ability to work as a member of a collaborative faculty team are required. We encourage applications from excellent candidates, particularly those who are eager to help us advance the School's diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives and programs.

Applicants must submit a statement addressing their contributions to diversity through research, teaching, and/or service, including how the applicant would contribute to the Department's commitment to being an inclusive educational and working environment for the students, faculty, staff, and other stakeholders of the Kelley School of Business and Indiana University. This statement should be submitted under "Diversity Statement" in the Required Documents.

To ensure consideration, applications should be received by February 11, 2022, however, the search will continue reviewing applications until the positions are filled. Interested applicants should review position requirements and apply at <https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/12212>. Applicants should direct questions to Dr. Katherine Ryan, Director of Communication Skills, Kelley School of Business, 1309 E. Tenth Street, Bloomington, IN 47405 or kcryan@indiana.edu.
